1. UC DAVIS OMBUDS OFFICE – WE ARE HERE FOR YOU

In times of crisis, change, and uncertainty, tension at work and in academic settings inevitably increases while people's ability to constructively manage conflicts diminishes. The Ombuds Office provides a confidential, listening ear as well as guidance on how to navigate difficult situations in a thoughtful and effective way. Through one-on-one, off-the-record conversations, we help identify options, explore resources, and discuss strategies for how you can best move forward and reduce the negative effects of work and academic-related conflict.

Through this period, the Ombud's Office remains fully operational via phone and Zoom. We continue to serve academic personnel and other members of the UC Davis and UC Davis Health communities. Please give us a call at (530) 754-7233 or (916) 734-1600 or send us an email at ombuds@ucdavis.edu to schedule a confidential appointment or discuss other services.

Visit our website at <https://ombuds.ucdavis.edu/> to learn more about our services including an upcoming webinar on communication in uncertain times. We have added a page of online resources that can help you with conflicts or concerns you might be facing during this current health situation; including how to lead through challenging times, communicate through conflict, and tips for remote working.

2. THE NEW MISSION BASED FACULTY DEVELOPMENT OFFERINGS ARE LIVE

The team of faculty and staff have been working really hard (and fast!) to complete a re-organization of Faculty Development in order provide mission-based modularized offerings beginning July 1, 2020. As part of the implementation plan we have developed a collection of new learning modules with the goals to: 1) assist us in our upcoming LCME accreditation, 2) address faculty needs and 3) better align with Institutional level priorities. The new programming is modeled on other successful Faculty Development programs around the country; we have been consulting with other university leaders with the goal of incorporating best practices from their programs. Executive coaching and internal AAMC type programming are also now available for faculty!

Effective July 1st faculty development will focus efforts on core areas including development for educators, researchers, and other general professional development offerings. This will allow us to address specific areas of deficit that have been identified by external reviewers and our faculty and students. A critical piece of our work is to standardize content in individual modules so they can be replicable and taught by multiple instructors. The expectation is that all instructors will undergo the same training to teach based on nationally recognized learning objective standards and we are working with Dr. Venugopal in CME to ensure that faculty can receive CME credit for taking some of the courses/modules. We also plan to offer multiple formats -increasing access for faculty and allowing us to increase the number of modules that can be delivered. Standardized curricula is an essential part of the plan to ensure uniformity of content, derived from learning objectives, which we can link to learning outcomes. An important piece in development is external program review and assessments.

As part of the reorganization of faculty development, we have restructured our resources to support new programming and will sunset the Mentoring Academy Program and some leadership development offerings effective June 30 2020. I appreciate your patience while we explore new ways to provide mentoring and training to our faculty.

4. NEW FACULTY PARENT SUPPORT GROUP: DOING IT ALL WHEN YOUR CHILDREN ARE SMALL.

Please join us for a drop-in support group for faculty parents of babies, toddlers, and preschool age children. Come meet and connect with others to share ideas and strategies for engaging in research and writing while parenting a very young child or children. The bi-weekly group is convened by Diane L. Wolf, Professor of Sociology, a long-time Work-Life Advisor, and a certified post-partum doula. You can also Zoom in for as little or as long as you like.
